Creation theory

The engineering of life

A professor who is an agronomist said that in the sun there is ice and many years later I remembered it while reading other scientific works and I asked why and I also remembered that he said it was because of the gases so I thought that logically there was ice for your life oxygen which It makes that great solar flame that we see which made me think in comparison to the earth of what was in the center of the earth so I thought that for there to be oxygen on the surface there must be ice that evaporates so the big question is also If there was life or not there was life on the sun, yes there was, it could be that it has become extinct or it could be that there are still inhabitants on the sun, which made me think that it could previously have been a planet, so the question is whether we are becoming a star, what the sun does to it and also if there is life in all of the stars, then we could say that in this universe everything has life. So it could be said that fertility, that is, human reproduction, also has to do with ice, oxygen and heat and it could be said that in this way the engineering of life can be treated.

So this theory believes that everything from the smallest thing makes the biggest thing we have seen and can imagine and that means consequently that everything is born, reproduces and dies in this universe, this theory puts it this way. And this is the true theory of God's universe that says that we come from a match, which makes everything constantly reproduce, both animals and plants, gases and the elements of the periodic table, which makes us constantly change forms. tastes the bodies in a correct order that was given from the beginning, constantly changing so that from what we currently are and live in this world. How to be able to live in other worlds without worrying too much about discovering so many things scientifically, but instead we come to live because here near and there far is the engineering of life that always tends to a brotherhood, like the sun illuminates us and gives us warmth, it helps us grow. why that is his job because one day he will die and one day the earth will become a new sun like so many other suns that will be in other worlds to which our planet will help so that they also give light and heat and thus we someday day we will illuminate and we will be light and heat for another object for another objective. What I don't know if we can coexist being light, heat and earth, also because it has been shown is that global warming is not in accordance with human life at least, but it is an indication of evolution, whether bad or good, this also corroborates the theory. of the engineering of life. What could also be said that this universe was created and is constantly created and constantly dies, which means that it has no replacement and even though science manages to make much more advances and hypotheses and theories, the engineering of life encourages me to say that it is a law but that will be talked about too much that is why I say theory but when they discover that for the game there has to be ice they will understand why I think that there is ice in the center of the earth and then this theory will become a law which will benefit this world to know and understand where we are going and what needs to be adjusted and taken measures and I am honest so as not to become extinct as a human race. That is why I tell you that God is a soul where all the bodies of the soul enter, which houses the entire universe and every soul has its body, so life does continue but in a different way, why is it evolution and you could say that the word death It also means life. I come to that conclusion based on the principle that everything is made from nothing, it fuses, it reproduces, I wish you smaller, it does what is bigger and then it dies and my opinion is that it goes back to nothing. The engineering of life could be said that everything is nothing and nothing is everything. What we would call love why is it like when your foot hurts what is it to remind you that you have it to walk in my case my soul hurt and I realized that I had to use it. That is why the human being is creative so as not to feel pain or the absence of love. This theory corroborates that God is the creator of heaven and earth.
